Additional Notes:

The warm air temperatures that we have experienced overnight and this morning will be leaving by early afternoon. A cold front will pass through the area changing the southerly winds to westerly. The westerly winds will blow rather briskly at 15-25 mph ushering in colder air. Along with the wind gusts and colder air will be a chance for snow showers. We are not expecting much in accumulation, but possibly enough to cover surfaces making surfaces slick. We will monitor, mobilizing if and when conditions dictate.
